Justin Stokes

Justin is a premium director with a distinct visual style whose work ranges from short form commercial to feature documentary. He cut his teeth in the industry working as an editor and camera operator on high-profile projects for Arctic Monkeys, Sony and Canon. From here he made a move into directing with his short scripted film Method Actor starring renowned thespian John Shrapnel.

The film was screened at top film festivals around the world including Cannes, Los Angeles Shorts Fest and Palm Springs International. High-profile TV advertising campaigns followed for major brands including O2, Range Rover, Robinsons and Belstaff.

Recently, Justin created his first Feature Missile From the East which premiered on Sky Documentaries and now available on Apple TV+ and Amazon Prime.

Justin is now in development on a second Feature Documentary.
