Jordan Eady

Jordan Eady is a multi award-winning director specializing in sports and adventure. No terrain or shot is too difficult for Jordan, as he has shot in over 70 countries in the most challenging of conditions. Whether shooting through the open doors of a swooping helicopter or lurking among a school of sharks 30 feet below the ocean surface, Jordan is among the most sought-after lenses on the planet.

Notable awards and projects include a One Show Golden Pencil and Grand Clio for Jordan's work on HBO's "For The Throne" campaign which involved filming on 4 continents as well as a Bronze Clio for the Ski-Doo brand's "Escape Mountain" campaign, in which Jordan filmed pro snow machine racers whilst traversing jaw-dropping mountain landscapes. Jordan also acted as Director of Photography and second unit Director for the stunning documentary "Sharkwater Extinction" which premiered at the Toronto Film Festival. Other brands/clients of note include Nike, FitBit, BMW and Virgin.

While focusing exclusively as a Director at present, Jordan's experience as an (Executive) Producer and DP on his own adventure series, mean that he always comes to set with practical and budget-friendly solutions. While known for stunning visuals, Jordan's unassuming, "can do" nature establishes quick rapport with talent and informs heavier dialogue scenes. Jordan's experience across genres and "on the fly" adaptability make him one of the most versatile directors on our roster.
